

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Key Quest Publishing Announces Entertainment Career Center: The Database

New platform lets users seamlessly find career opportunities in the entertainment industry

June 21, 2019 - The team at Key Quest Publishing is pleased to announce the launch of Entertainment Career Center, an all-new online subscription database where users can seamlessly find career opportunities in the entertainment industry - debuting in the Mobile App Pavilion (#2923D).

Sponsored by the Nickelodeon Writing Program, Entertainment Career Center: The Database streamlines the entertainment career-search process for everyone interested in Fashion, Film/TV, Gaming, Music and Sports.

Rather than sifting through endless lists of search engine results and pages, users can access Entertainment Career Center to go straight to current career opportunities with one simple tool. From internships and staffing agencies to fellowships, scholarships, training programs and more, the Database helps librarians, career counselors and patrons find entertainment career opportunities, faster.

“Getting details about the industry is made simple with the new hub,” the team at Entertainment Career Center shares. “Users can browse 15 different categories, explore continuously updated, verified content, with advanced search options for specific data — and real-time updates. Current users like the trending listings and social media sharing options too. New listings are added weekly...so log in often!”

Founded by Howard University alumna Dackeyia Q. Sterling, a former production associate at National Public Radio (NPR) and literary agent in Hollywood, CA, Entertainment Career Center’s exhibit and debut at the 2019 American Library Association (ALA) Conference is complimented by live demonstrations in the Mobile App Pavilion at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 22 and Sunday, June 23 and an autograph session at 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, June 22 in the Author Autographing Area — where Sterling will sign copies of her newest book, Entertainment Power Players®: Edition 6 Directory - Fashion, Film/TV & Music.

“We are thrilled about our ALA participation and our ongoing connection with librarians, patrons, present and future power players,” Sterling shares. “For ALA, our concentration is on networking and fun. We have daily giveaways and must-see power player content.”

About Key Quest Publishing

Key Quest Publishing is the company behind brands including Entertainment Career Center™ and Entertainment Power Players®.

About Dackeyia Q. Sterling

Dackeyia Q. Sterling is CEO/Publisher & Founder of Entertainment Power Players® and Entertainment Career Center: The Database. She has previously participated in ALA, BookExpo and the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) National Conferences. A native of Vallejo, California and a proud graduate of Howard University, Sterling got her professional start as a production associate at National Public Radio (NPR) headquarters in Washington, D.C. She is a #1 Amazon Bestselling Author, motivational speaker, wife and mother of an incredible tween.

Contact

Key Quest Publishing

E-mail: info@EntertainmentCareerCenter.com

Website: www.EntertainmentCareerCenter.com

###